SHAW DENIES HE IS SEEKING PRESIDENCY

Not Ousted to Roosevelt, but Thanks National Lesson Has Been Taught.

STATEMENT TO AMERICAN

By Boston American Learned Wife.
NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Radio M. Shaw.) Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Secretary of the Executive, in a statement issued to the Boston American, has announced that she was seeking the presidential nomination, and believed that President Roosevelt would be a candidate for a third term.

By LESLIE M. SHAW.

The West has carved her part of the small business man and the country has been as helped as ever. I have no interest in politics except as it affects the business of the country. I am not a candidate for the presidency. I am not a candidate for the presidency. I am not a candidate for the presidency.

Lesson Has Been Taught

I think that President Roosevelt has performed the task which came naturally to his hands with signal courage and success. The lesson has been taught. The lesson has been taught. The lesson has been taught.

Today's Lesson in The American's Course for Salespeople

The personal appearance of a salesperson has a larger bearing on the question of making sales than many think. The girl on the white glove counter, for instance, who looks as dainty and clean as the goods she is selling seems to fit right into the surroundings and has an appreciable and favorable influence on the customer.

Out on these "lessons." Every Sunday we print a review and self-examination. A good plan is to clip the lessons and reviews out and paste them in a scrapbook. You will then have a manual on salesmanship that you could not buy for a good many dollars. It may be worth hundreds to you in increased salary.

Worldly Woman's Maxims

By Dorothy Dix

It is a pity that when he takes the form of life it is an eternal pleasure and of life.

It may be true that opportunity comes once at every man's door, but upon some doors it rarely takes a second try, while others who flourish in it, will wait for it.

A woman without friends is a woman without a future. A woman without a future is a woman without a home.

A man appeals a woman for her virtue, but he loves her for her weakness and marries her for her fault.

When a husband and wife meet in the first time, they are not in love, but they are in love with the idea of being in love.

The one perfect man in the world is the man who is not perfect.

One of the miseries of life is the average mother is, who her children while she is married, and then when she is single, she is a mother.

A sweetheart is a best friend who is not a friend, and a friend is a best friend who is not a sweetheart.

It is good when you support poor men, but it is better when you support poor women, for they are more numerous.

Education still sits heavily on the shoulders of the poor, and it is heavier than ever.

Most women find in business that they work with one eye on the clock and the other on a possible husband.

Most men would like to be married when they are old, and then they are old when they are married.

How Women's Daily Court Dress is Killing Them

Exposure Follows in the Wake of Fashion

By ARLETTA B. CANFIELD

"D" EATH from exposure" might well be the death of many a New England woman of a day.

The wonder is not that so many of our women catch their death of cold, but that so many of them survive as all the treatment they need.

It makes no difference how cold or how hot the weather, for the New England woman will go to the North Pole in her dress.

Education still sits heavily on the shoulders of the poor, and it is heavier than ever.

Most women find in business that they work with one eye on the clock and the other on a possible husband.

Peek-a-Boo

Then there is the reprobate Peek-a-Boo, which is simply an invitation to gripe.

With it can be worn no substantial undergarment, and the worst of it is that the weather is not in the middle of summer.

The funny thing about it is that when she has drawn her up to about her neck, she is not in the least bit of a hurry to get it off.

Now, to add insult to injury, when the woman goes out at night in this dress, she is not in the least bit of a hurry to get it off.

When you come to think of it, women are not so much of a hurry to get it off.

BARE HEADS

Is Enough to Make Blood Freeze in the Veins

There has not as much protection from the changes in temperature as has the average man, the woman is.

A woman may look only in a spin of the wheel, but when she is in the street, she is in a spin.

There is nothing so beautiful as a woman's head, and a woman's head is a woman's head.

But she should be attired in a sensible dress, and a woman's head is a woman's head.

There is nothing so beautiful as a woman's head, and a woman's head is a woman's head.

"How Delightful to Be Married," Says the Popular Song

By Beatrice Fairfax

"How delightful to be married!" is the refrain of a popular song going the rounds of the music halls at present.

It undoubtedly is very delightful to be married, but it is not so delightful to be married as it is to be married.

Everyone should marry, if he has a chance of doing so, and if he has a chance of doing so, he should marry.

A woman married for love, money, or power, will never be happy, and a woman married for love, money, or power, will never be happy.

The marriage made solely for money is a marriage made for money, and a marriage made for money is a marriage made for money.

Marry for Love. I have known women who, when a woman married a man whom she did not love, she was not happy.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

It is better to be married than to be single, but it is better to be married than to be single.

ANTY DRUDGE'S ADVICE TO MRS. CAREWORN.

Mrs. Careworn: "Jack and I went to the theatre last night. It was fine." Mrs. Careworn: "And I suppose you wash got a lick and a promise. Any woman who does her work right is too tired to go out Monday night." Anty Drudge: "No, she didn't let her work go! I'll tell you what she did. She used Fels-Naptha soap which does the work in half the time and doesn't give you a backache in doing it."

THE NEW WAY. Get up at 7 o'clock summer and winter. Wet all your clothes, soap well with Fels-Naptha and let them soak in cool or lukewarm water for 30 minutes. Then rub lightly, rinse well and hang out to dry. That's all. And your clothes will be cleaner, whiter and purer than you could get them in any other way. The whole washing takes only a few hours.

WHICH WAY SOUNDS BEST TO YOU?

In using Fels-Naptha, follow simple directions printed on the red and green wrapper.

The Big Stores Are Training Schools

We Offer Some Suggestions to the Nation's Hundreds of Thousands of Clerks

Copyright, 1908, by Arthur J. Eastman

On another page of this newspaper you will find the third in a Course of Lessons for Salespeople. Two of these lessons have already been printed. Others are to follow.

They are written by an expert, and should be read by every man and woman and girl employed in every store in the United States who hopes for advancement, either in position or salary.

Every Sunday there is printed a review and examination which should prove valuable. These lessons are WORTH READING and WORTH KEEPING.

We want to advise employees of the big stores to consider their work as a sort of training school. And we assure them that, to the intelligent man or woman, work in a big store gives the best possible opportunities for acquiring the knowledge and the tact that will lead to success.

The employee of a big store, if he will realize it, has the best possible chance to qualify himself for success, because success in this world, at least in a commercial sense, is based upon the knowledge of human beings and of the means of pleasing them.

The man or woman working for a big department store has the best possible chance to study humanity and to learn to deal successfully with men and women of all kinds.

Of course the careless employee, forever criticizing conditions and mistaking a lack of ambition for a sign of genius, may learn nothing in his employment. And, of course, unfortunately there are some too old to learn, and some lacking the energy that makes real success possible.

But we say with confidence to the energetic man or woman in a big store: Yours is a splendid chance to develop success if the ability is in you. Thousands of men and women deal with you, ask you questions, tax your patience, give you chances to study their strength and their weakness. If any one of you can say at the end of a week's work:

"I have pleased every customer, I have lost my temper with none, I have worked as though I were working for myself," that one can be sure that he is on the way to achieve a success of his own.

To all clerks we beg to say that they should not delude themselves with ideas as to what they WOULD do if they were their own bosses. The man or woman who cannot succeed as an employee will succeed still less as an employer. The man who has not ambition enough, by hard work and faithful service, to lift himself out of a small position would not know how to fill a big position if he got it.

Remember that hard work, close observation of human nature, and especially a careful study of the way to please and satisfy those with whom you deal, are essential to your own commercial success.

We give the clerks this advice. Say to yourselves: "This big store belongs to some man. How did he get it? Did he ever work for anybody else? How did he work when HE was an employee?"

Answer these questions honestly and act on them. You will find yourself first of all getting rid of all ill-humors, indifferent manner. You will pick up instead of losing your temper with a customer, because the customer happens to lack courtesy, you will be interested to control that customer through politeness, as a skillful driver controls a restive horse.

Don't look upon your present employment as everlasting and unchangeable, don't waste energy on complaints because you are not the owner. Say to yourself that you are in a great training school, in which you are paid not only to work, but to improve yourself.

Say to yourself that somewhere in that store a clerk is at work who in a few years will have achieved his own success and be independent of the world.

Remember that the only difference to-day between you and that clerk destined to great success is a difference of hard work and close attention to business. That clerk is not ahead of you yet. DON'T LET HIM GET AHEAD OF YOU.

Make up your mind that YOU will achieve success, as it only can be achieved, BY DESERVING IT.

TO THE CITIZENS OF MASSACHUSETTS:
THE MASSACHUSETTS Legislature is confronted with a question which is of the greatest importance to YOU. This question is whether the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad will be allowed to own the stock of the Boston & Maine Railroad, which it has gotten in defiance of Massachusetts statutes.

If this stock is kept and owned by the New Haven Railroad, all transportation in New England will be in the hands of one board of directors—railroads, trolley lines and steamship lines.

CITIZENS OF MASSACHUSETTS: do you want this condition of affairs for now and for all time? Already 45,000 lines of transportation in Connecticut and Rhode Island have been thrown into the New Haven's control. More than six hundred miles of trolley line in Massachusetts are already owned by the New Haven.

The Cole bill last year provided that unless the Legislature act this year on or before July 1, the stock of the Boston & Maine purchased by the New Haven, although purchased without the permission of the Legislature, would be legal.

The Cole bill did not save the issue at the time, but gave the New Haven Railroad another year to "get ready" for any legislation which might stop the proposed monopoly!

Pay Attention to the Little Things

BY ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

EVERY great issue is decided by the little things. It is made of little things—seconds and minutes from the busy, busy months, years.

While you are planning the events of coming months or years, heaping to shape the ritual events of daily life, that make happiness or unhappiness for those about you.

If you are a married man your first duty is to your family; your second duty to your business; your third duty to the world at large.

But the last one can never be accomplished in its fulness unless you are a good, clean, kind, earnest man in the home.

Success begins at home. Unless the coming home of a husband and father means joy to the family, unless his fostered is quiet to their ears, he need not expect to be a power for good in the world; and no change of government can make him a better or influential man.

No woman who seeks for a large field of usefulness in the world can attain it unless she is first of all useful and loving in the daily life of home.

If a wife and mother, she must put herself in those times, or brand her

Labor Itself and the "Products of Labor"

By E. Gerry Brown

In an article on "The Recent Decision of the United States Supreme Court," by the Hon. William Randolph Hearst, he speaks of his "Bill to Protect Trade and Commerce," introduced in Congress, wherein he repeated the terms of the Sherman Act but used the phrase "Products of Labor."

He is not the first to use the phrase "Products of Labor," but he is the first to use it in connection with the Sherman Act, as distinguished from Labor itself, which would exclude Labor itself from the Sherman Act.

Heard recently mentions the fact that the economic and moral difference between Labor and the "product of Labor" cannot be too strongly emphasized.

The lawyers, the judges and the editors who can see no difference between the two are responsible for the lives and the decisions which deny to Labor that which it really is its natural right.

What is Labor? What is it that Labor sells? What does Labor seek to protect when Labor organizes?

Labor is a product. Labor is an individuality that has a natural right to acquire, possess and protect property; in time, to seek and obtain the safety and happiness.

This enumeration of natural rights is taken from Article I of the "Declaration of Rights of the Inhabitants of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

Reference is made to this authority because in these days such sentiments are denounced as revolutionary, and declared to be calculated to "disturb the value of stocks and throw men out of jobs by involving a panic" among those who are in dreadful fear that the government may be restored to the ideals of the founders.

The Distinction
It is quite clear that in the days of our great-grandfathers a man had more than one opportunity to use of his labor power to produce a product without retaining its original individuality. Man's labor power to produce a product is a separate and distinct from the product itself. The man sells life a failure, however she succeeds in the fields of literature, art, charity or science.

The good man makes a good husband, the good daughter a good wife, as a rule, just in the same way the good husband and wife who build their home on the altar of unselfishness and consideration for the welfare of the other, in the larger fields of usefulness for the betterment of the masses.

If you are longing to do something to improve the world, see to it that you improve yourself a little every day. The spirit the quick word, the impatient reply, the cutting criticism.

Give Praise Freely
Instead of looking for and commenting on the flaws in those you live with, look for something to praise.

Begin each day with a compliment to your associates—wife, husband, children, friends, comrades, as the case may be.

Tell them if they look well, or if they have done well, and give them a word of courage and hope for new achievements.

If they do not look well, or if they have not done well, be silent and make no criticism until you have learned the cause.

Perhaps it is your habitual lack of appreciation which has discouraged them. Do not be afraid of giving any one praise. More lives are ruined by lack of it than by it.

Love grows as well as life. Love grows by being uttered.

See how much of a nation. They will charge the air with electric force, and will be maintained in the vitality, new influence to rise in your business and your relations with the world.

Love much.

A Natural Right
The right to work at a fair day's pay for a fair day's work under fair conditions is a fair statement of the object for which Labor is organized. It is a natural right.

This fundamental theory on which our government rests is denied recognition in our legislatures and in our courts. The opinion of many clear thinkers, in the labor movement. Yet they are asked to accept laws and decisions which declare if they do not observe this natural right.

Labor is declared to be a "trust," and, of course, as our great-grandfathers fought for these same rights they must have been "trusts."

Labor's attempt to obtain this very fundamental natural right to live is declared to be a "conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce." "IT'S" must have equally guilty.

Labor's agreement to give its trade to those who will do fairly with it is declared to be an actionable injury to the extent of three times the damage that can be proven, and the property of each member of the organization is liable to seizure.

It is to be expected that Labor will fall the known to sign a contract a system that produces innumerable benefits for those who eat the bread that others have earned.

With it stand clear and together in determination that once again the spirit and aim of American government shall be to obtain those objects for which was founded?
